VETERINARY CLINIC AT FRANKFORT NOW OPEN WITH MODERN FEATURES

Dr. F. W. Siefert of the Veterinary clinic, came to Frankfort in 1947 and opened a veterinary office. In 1948 Dr. J. H. Moser, a classmate at Michigan State college, came to Frankfort to join Dr. Siefert. Together they established the Siefert and Moser Veterinary Clinic. The clinic handles all types of animals. The smaller animals are handled at the clinic building. For instance, a short time ago they had one little four day old pig, under a heat lamp, and were apparently thriving in their little cage.

The building housing the clinic was built entirely by the two young doctors.

It is built of concrete throughout and planned to have the utmost of sanitary conditions prevailing. The outside of the building is finished in yellow, while the inside is decorated with enamel walls. The floors are concrete finished in rubberized paint, floors are sloping to drains. The kennel room has all concrete cages with steel doors enabling one to flush out and disinfect the cages thoroughly with a minimum of effort.

The two doctors have been together one and one-half years, are both married and have one son each. By their working with dogs they now plan to enlarge the kennel room and put in runways for their "patients" exercise. They announce that their office hours are from one to two p. m. and 7 to 8 Monday thru Friday. In case of emergency they can be seen Saturdays and Sundays by appointment. They are both available for calls at any time.

This clinic fills a long-felt need in this locality and we are sure they will have good support.

'VOICE OF DEEP' TO BE SHOWN AT LINCOLN ESTATES

Man's ever-hungry search to conquer the unknown has recently led scientists to a new and amazing discovery—fish talk!

According to studies made by the Navy and staff members of Moody Institute of Science in Los Angeles, the fishy inhabitants of the "silent deep" are not silent after all. Instead, they cackle, cluck, click their teeth and create a general hubbub that resembles a marine barnyard.

Full-color sound films of these new discoveries were released this fall by the Moody Institute of Science, under the title "Voice of the Deep", and are scheduled for showing Monday March 14, in the Calvary Baptist church, Lincoln Estates, according to the pastor, Rev. William Kerr.

In "Voice of the Deep", the audience not only sees such exotic creatures as the snapping shrimp and porpoise, but hears them as well. Garibaldi and some unidentified "night sounds" are among the other deep subjects studied in the film.

In conjunction with the scientific story of the discovery of underwater sound, producer Irwin A. Moon brings in the parallel of the unknown spiritual realm. Because men could not hear fish communicating, he has said they were silent. In the same way, Dr. Moon points out, many deny the spiritual aspect of life because of a lack of knowledge and experience.

Orland Home Bureau Met in Maue Home

Mrs. Owen Maue entertained members of the Orland Home Bureau in her home Friday evening.

The major lesson on Menu Planning was given by our Cook county Home Adviser, Mrs. Clara Delph Upham. She stressed the fact that housewives must very carefully choose foods that fit the budget, since the amount of money spent for food is always a major part of most incomes. Food is also the chief part of the family purchases because the contents of the market basket play a large part in determining the health, both present and future, of our families. She highly recommended: 1. Plan menus and shopping lists in advance; 2. Learn meanings of various grades of products; 3. Prepare food at home if possible.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. Ray Myrick, Orland Park chairman; Mrs. John Lohmann, vice chairman; Mrs. Owen Maue, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. K. Ihlenfeld, 4-H chairman and Mrs. Roy Lemke, publicity.

NEW CODE BANS SHANTY TOWNS

This is the title of an article in the February 13 Chicago Tribune and was similarly publicized in other papers.

"We doubt if Cook County farm people realize how this came about," states Farm Adviser Hughes. "The code has been filed with the County Board and awaits the 30-day notice period."

"This is a very brief history of this code," explains Hughes. "Following repeated complaints from farm people from folks settling in the county in shacks and troubles resulting, we explained a procedure to meet the problem to the Farm Bureau Board. Proposal was for securing legislation to regulate residential building in rural areas and the laying out of subdivisions. The IAA Legislative Committee was approached, the Cook County Truck Growers concurring in the move. After two tries and the powers of County Boards was extended to zone rural residential buildings excluding agriculture, the subdivision proposal got tangled in legislative machinery and was dropped."

"The Farm Adviser was appointed to a committee of real estate men, architects, masons, plumbers, zoning people, etc., and for weeks and months days have been devoted to developing a minimum residential code for rural areas, excluding farm dwellings. On becoming effective henceforth rural dwellings not on farms must get a permit and submit to inspection to prevent cheap buildings being erected in the country and thereby creating rural slum areas."

"Frequently your organization is on the job for farmers' interests, unknown to farm people. Many other similar instances could be listed. Just now Farm Bureau is backing the Truck Gardeners in their effort to secure the Farmers Market, the whole story of which cannot yet be repeated."

Sod Waterways Boon To Conservation

Early spring floods will be carrying many an acre of rich Illinois topsoil down the river unless your fields are ready for those big rains.

Sod waterways—good sod waterways—on your farm will slow down the speed of run-off water and pay off in higher crop yields by keeping the productive soil in place. Waterways are like the eaves on your roof—they collect the water and carry it harmlessly away.

Ben F. Muirhead, University of Illinois agricultural engineer, says there is a need for 251,400 acres of sod waterways on Illinois farms. A goal of 25,436 acres under a special 1949 sod waterway project has been set up in the agricultural conservation program. About 2,363 acres were built during 1947, according to reports.

Farmers may earn payments for shaping, preparing seedbed, seeding, moving earth, and for construction work. Payments will not be made until after the work has been completed and approved.

"The waterway should be wide enough and deep enough to carry off the water after the heaviest rain," Muirhead said. "Also, it should be shallow enough for mowing and crossing with farm machinery. A wide, almost flat-bottomed or saucer-shaped ditch, slightly deeper in the center, is desirable."

The University engineer said that while waterways do carry off surplus water without forming gullies, they do not take the place of soil treatment and erosion control measures on adjoining slopes.

Sod waterways are considered the first, or basic, of all mechanical practices. Almost every Illinois farm needs sod waterways, and you can build them without almost no technical help.

Your county farm adviser or soil conservation district technician can provide further information and valuable helps.

U. Economists Discuss Recent Price Breaks

The recent price breaks in farm products are not expected to burst into a price collapse like 1920. But farmers are facing a postwar readjustment in prices which means a lower level clear across the board.

That's the combined judgment of two farm economists in the Illinois College of Agriculture.

Says Larry Simerl: "Frankly, I don't expect prices to drop as they did in 1920. There are many conditions now that we didn't have in 1920 which make a serious price break unlikely."

Dr. L. J. Norton adds: "I didn't think 60 days ago that we were facing the postwar shift in farm prices. But later events forced me to this new opinion. The evidence is that all staple farm products except wool are now below their peak levels."

Simerl lists several shock absorbers that should soften any price recession. The government will now repay full par value in cash to any owner holding part of the $250 billion in government bonds. After World War I the government would not pay out cash for bonds until they matured.

Also, if we should have a recession, the government would spend heavily and taxes would drop. In addition, farmers and labor now want high wages and high prices rather than "sound money" as in 1920.

Present farm price support laws are another strong shock absorber in checking extreme drops in farm prices. Simerl adds. So are the probable large outlays for national defense.

On the other hand, Norton points out that farm prices are vulnerable. Food production is about one-third larger than prewar, while population is up less than one-sixth.

"Present large exports will be likely to decline," Norton predicts, "as a result of better supplies abroad and a shortage of dollars. Only the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) holds up the effective demand in the export market."

In the readjusted prices, animal products are likely to be relatively more profitable than selling grain, Norton believes.

WATCH FOR TURNING CARS

Danger from turning automobiles to youngsters crossing streets is highlighted in the monthly poster distributed by the Chicago Motor Club to 44,000 elementary school classrooms in Illinois and Indiana. Safety needs of youngsters in differing age groups are accommodated by a variety of instruction sheets accompanying the poster. A prize winner in the nationwide poster contest conducted annually by the Chicago Motor Club and affiliated organizations of the American Automobile Association, the drawing is the work of a Washington, D. C. high school student.

The longest known flight of a homing pigeon, according to the World Book Encyclopedia was from Arras, France, to China—over seven thousand miles.

If the earth had no atmosphere, the sky would always look black says the World Book Encyclopedia. The sun, moon and stars would appear to be shining in a great dark curtain.

The "Jeep," says the World Book Encyclopedia got its name from the initials of the Army's official designation for it: General purpose (g. p.) vehicle.

Each man-hour of farm labor now means two-fifths more total production than it did before World War II.

Miss Johnson at the time was going to the rear of their yard, near 79th street, when she fell. As she could not move, she called for help, and it was over two hours before some passerby heard her and went to her aid. The doctor was called and she was removed to the hospital. She suffers much pain. As she is not too well known in Lincoln Estates, she is very lonesome, as her brother who works in Chicago, has closed his house and is living in the city. She would be happy to receive cards from her friends and neighbors in Lincoln Estates. Her room number is 127.

The 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steck underwent an emergency appendectomy Saturday night in Silver Cross hospital.

A potluck dinner held in the Ann Rutledge school last Saturday evening was greatly enjoyed by all who attended. There were games for the children with prizes. Mrs. Kissell Barton was in charge of the evening and is to be congratulated for her excellent work. Special Lenten devotions will be held in St. Anthony's church in Lincoln Estates tomorrow night, March 4, starting at eight o'clock.

HERE'S THE SPRAYER YOU WANT

Automatic ALL-PURPOSE POWER SPRAYER

KILL WEEDS - NOT CORN

$16 TO $60 MORE PER ACRE

"2-4-D for corn: Use a maximum of 1/3 pound 2-4-D (actual) per acre as one of the salts when corn is 10 to 20 inches tall. Use low volume of water applied from the side with one or two nozzles per row so as to wet corn leaves as little as possible. 2-4-D will control many weeds too near corn to be taken out by cultivation. Some growers spray and cultivate in one operation." Page 21, March 1948 issue "Better Farming Methods," a famous scientific magazine published exclusively for County Agents, Vocational Agriculture Teachers, and other Agricultural Leaders.

ONLY Automatic GIVES YOU:

1. FLEXIBLE BOOM DROPS the spray exactly where you want it, where it will do the most good—kill the weeds that suck the moisture from the corn. Kill weeds missed by cultivator. Apply spray from the side below the leaves.
2. TRICYCLE TANK UNIT hinges rigidly on tractor, single castor wheel follows in tractor front wheel tracks—runs between corn rows—stays in position on hillsides—follows contours perfectly, turns at end of row without dragging corn down.
3. POSITIVE PROOF on thousands of acres in 1947. This is the famous Nebraska Sprayer proved by hundreds of practical farmers under tough, actual farming conditions in every principal farm state. Sturdy, rugged, dependable money maker.

PAYS FOR ITSELF OVER AND OVER!
